

THE 2026 FIELD GUIDE

A better day's work.

The Legacy AI guide to getting more done.

Practical solutions for the work behind the work.

NAVIGATION

Open where the work gets stuck.

This is a working guide, not a package to buy all at once. Find the situation that sounds familiar, read the relevant options, and bring one useful question to the conversation.

Prefer a guided start? Use the online intake.

04 People are trying to reach you

Calls, website conversations, bookings and follow-up

07 The work follows you home

Field notes, reports, approvals, payments and dispatch

10 The business is hard to discover

Websites, local search, maps and reputation

13 Marketing keeps getting postponed

Writing, social posts, video, campaigns and support

16 The moving parts feel uncertain

Security, recovery, reporting, integration and customer records

19 A decision needs another perspective

The Board, report contents and standing-seat options

BEFORE YOU CHOOSE

Make the first change small enough to see.

The strongest starting point is usually a specific piece of work that repeats. Describe it plainly before choosing the tool. Use these four questions to turn a general frustration into a workable brief.

1

What happens?

Choose an ordinary example: a call goes unanswered, a report waits for notes, or a customer asks for the same update.

2

Where does it wait?

Name the moment the process slows down. It may be a handoff, a missing detail, a repeated entry or a decision only you can make.

3

What should happen next?

Describe the useful next step in everyday language: book a time, produce a report, collect approval or alert the right person.

4

How will you recognize done?

Use a real example to agree on what you will see working. Keep the first conversation grounded in your workflow and your customers.

01 / FILL THE CALENDAR

Keep the door open.

A customer rarely arrives through one tidy channel. They call while you are working, browse after closing, and leave a quote unanswered. Start by making the next step easy wherever they find you.

HOW TO CHOOSE

Follow the gap, not the channel.

If calls go unanswered, begin with reception or missed-call recovery. If visitors ask the same questions, begin on the website. If interest fades after a quote, work on follow-up before adding more advertising.

Explore the options on the next two pages.

01 / FILL THE CALENDAR

From first contact to a booking

01 / WEB · 24/7

The Silent Closer

A friendly conversation on your website answers questions about prices, hours and services, then books the appointment. It works around the clock, even at two in the morning.

03 / SCHEDULING

The Live Booking Calendar

Customers choose a time on your website without phone tag. The calendar checks your actual availability, so it only offers open slots and avoids double-bookings.

05 / LEAD CAPTURE

The Lead Catcher

Capture who a visitor is and what they wanted, even when they leave before finishing the form. Follow up on the interest that might otherwise disappear.

02 / VOICE · BILINGUAL

The Receptionist Who Never Calls In

A real-sounding voice answers calls, handles questions and books appointments directly into your calendar. Spanish-language conversations help customers who might otherwise hang up find their way to a booking.

04 / OUTBOUND · NIGHTLY

The Daily Hunter

Automated local prospecting looks for people in your area who need what you sell. It runs daily, bringing opportunities to your business without a morning of dialing.

A USEFUL QUESTION

Where did the last promising inquiry stop?

01 / FILL THE CALENDAR

Keep the opportunity moving

06 / SMS · AUTO

The Missed-Call Recovery

When you cannot answer, the caller gets a friendly text back instantly. Keep the conversation open and give missed calls another path to becoming booked work.

07 / NURTURE

The Follow-Up Machine

Text each new lead, nudge outstanding quotes and ask for reviews at the right moment. Follow-up keeps moving without becoming another task on your desk.

08 / ANALYTICS

The Traffic Tattletale

See where customers came from, what they clicked and what prompted their call. Use that view to understand which advertising is earning its place.

09 / REVIEWS · AUTO

The Review Harvester

Send a gentle review request after a good experience, on the platform that matters to your business. Customer concerns go to you first so you can address the problem.

BRING THIS TO THE CONVERSATION

Look at the whole path: the inquiry, your reply, the booking and the next contact. The weakest step is a useful place to begin.

02 / RUN THE BUSINESS

Give good work a clear process.

The job is only part of the work. Notes need turning into reports, approvals need recording, and money needs collecting. A clear process carries those details from the field back into the business.

HOW TO CHOOSE

Start with the repeated handoff.

Notice where someone copies, chases or re-enters information. Choose one ordinary job and follow it from dispatch to payment. The best first change often sits at the point where work waits for another person.

Explore the options on the next two pages.

02 / RUN THE BUSINESS

Capture the work as it happens

10 / FIELD / REPORT

The Report Writer

A technician captures photos, measurements and findings by speaking into a phone at the job site. That information becomes a branded report delivered to the customer, before the trip back is over.

12 / WORKFLOW

The Technician Dashboard

Guide every technician through the same sequence: en route, on site, working and done. Required steps and before photos stay part of the job, rather than something someone remembers later.

14 / PAYMENTS

On-Site Card Processing

Take a card payment at the customer's property and send a branded receipt straight to their inbox. Finish the payment while you are still on site.

11 / VOICE ENTRY

The Talk-To-Type Field Tool

Crews speak instead of typing on small screens. The tool records conditions, materials and measurements so field notes move faster and the important details get written down.

13 / PAPERLESS

The Digital Sign-Off

The customer signs on the phone. Approval is recorded and filed in seconds, without a paper form to chase or a promise to send it later.

A USEFUL QUESTION

What still needs doing after the customer thinks the job is finished?

02 / RUN THE BUSINESS

Carry the job through to payment

15 / REVENUE

The Upsell Menu

Show the standard service alongside optional extras on the same screen. Customers can add the work they want, giving each job room to grow without a hard sell.

16 / COLLECTIONS

The Invoice Chaser

Unpaid invoices receive polite, persistent follow-up until they are paid. The reminders keep moving without relying on your memory or putting you in the chasing role.

17 / ACCOUNTING

Books That Balance Themselves

Payments, receipts and expenses are sorted and categorized for your accountant. Keep the records ready throughout the year so April does not begin with a scramble.

18 / DISPATCH

The Dispatcher

Match each call with the technician who is nearby, available and equipped with the right truck. Coordinate the job without a whiteboard, group text or another dispatch call to you.

BRING THIS TO THE CONVERSATION

Choose the step that is hardest to keep consistent: approvals, optional work, payment, records or dispatch.

03 / LOOK BIGGER THAN YOU ARE

Make your reputation easy to find.

Customers judge what they can see. A clear website, a useful local page and an attentive response to a review all help them understand your business before they speak to you.

HOW TO CHOOSE

Fix the destination before sending more traffic.

A new campaign cannot explain a confusing website for you. Start with the page a customer lands on, the places they search and the evidence they use to decide whether to call.

Explore the options on the next two pages.

03 / LOOK BIGGER THAN YOU ARE

Build a useful place to land

19 / WEBSITE

A Real Custom Website

A custom site built for your trade, your town and your customers. Designed from scratch and fast on phones, it gives your business a polished presence that earns its keep.

20 / CONVERSION

High-Converting Landing Pages

A focused page turns a campaign click into a phone call. Built in a day for a seasonal promotion or an ad, then tuned to improve the response.

21 / RESCUE

Website Rescue

We take over a slow or broken website, fix the problems and make it fast. You keep your domain and get a site you can feel comfortable sending customers to.

22 / DELIVERABLES

The Customer Portal

Give customers clean, secure links to their reports, videos and invoices. A clear delivery experience makes finding the finished work feel as straightforward as tracking a package.

23 / SEO · PROGRAMMATIC

A Page For Every Neighborhood

Create a page for every city, town and ZIP code you serve, written with local landmarks and local language. This approach is already in production for a statewide Indiana service business.

24 / SEO

Top Of Google For Your Town

Improve your visibility for your trade in your area with useful content and sound site structure. Help neighbors find your business when they search for the service you provide.

03 / LOOK BIGGER THAN YOU ARE

Be visible, credible and responsive

25 / GEO · AI ANSWERS

Get Recommended By ChatGPT

Build your business's presence in answers from ChatGPT and other AI assistants. When someone asks for a local recommendation, your business is prepared to be part of the conversation.

26 / LOCAL · MAPS

The Map Pack

Manage your Google Business profile with current posts, photos and reviews, supporting visibility in the top three Google Maps results for nearby searches.

27 / REVIEWS

The Review Ladder

Automatically ask happy customers for a review at a moment when the experience is fresh. Build the reputation that supports stronger, lasting visibility in local search.

28 / REVIEWS · TRIAGE

Bad-Review Interception

Route unhappy customers to you first so you can resolve their concerns before they become a public review. Give a difficult experience a better ending.

29 / ENGAGEMENT

Review Response Handling

Every review, positive or negative, gets a thoughtful response in your brand's voice within the day. Customers see a business that is attentive without you logging in to reply.

30 / SOCIAL PROOF

Social Proof Everywhere

Put your strongest reviews to work on your website, landing pages, ads and follow-up emails. Let customers hear from the people who have already chosen you.

04 / BE EVERYWHERE WITHOUT WORKING MORE

Put one good idea to work in more places.

You already have useful things to say: what happened on a job, how a problem was solved, what a customer should know. The work is turning that knowledge into a steady presence and a useful conversation.

HOW TO CHOOSE

Choose a rhythm you can feed.

If speaking comes easily, start with a voice memo. If the work is visual, start with a short video. Then decide where the message belongs and which replies need your attention.

Explore the options on the next two pages.

04 / BE EVERYWHERE WITHOUT WORKING MORE

Create once. Keep showing up.

31 / CONTENT

The Writer Who Never Sleeps

Articles, blog posts, service pages and newsletters, all in your voice. The existing client workflow produces more than 800 pieces a year with about an hour a week of the client's attention.

33 / VIDEO · REPURPOSE

Long-To-Short Video

Turn one job-site video into twenty short clips for TikTok, Reels and YouTube Shorts. Captions and hooks are included, giving one filming session a month of posts.

35 / ADS

Done-For-You Ad Campaigns

Campaigns for Google, Facebook, Instagram and local directories. We handle creative, copy, targeting and ongoing tuning so you can focus on answering the inquiries.

32 / SOCIAL

The Social Media Sidekick

Keep posts on schedule, the feed active and comments answered. Stay familiar to your audience without opening Instagram while you are on a job.

34 / VOICE-FIRST

Blog From A Voice Memo

A ten-minute voice memo about a job becomes a blog post, an email and five social posts. Capture what you know from the truck without sitting down at a keyboard.

36 / EMAIL · SMS

Email & Text Campaigns

Newsletters, promotions, seasonal reminders and messages to win back quiet customers. Written in your voice and sent when they are relevant to the people on your list.

04 / BE EVERYWHERE WITHOUT WORKING MORE

Keep every conversation useful

37 / AUTOMATION

Seasonal Automation

Schedule spring tune-ups, pre-winter check-ups, back-to-school specials and other recurring reminders. The right message returns each year without another calendar task.

38 / PROSPECTING

Sales Outreach On Autopilot

Find and research prospects, prepare a personal-sounding message and send it. Interesting replies come to you, keeping outreach moving while you do the work.

39 / QUOTING

The Quote-From-Photo Tool

A customer texts a photo of a dented fender, leaky pipe or cracked driveway and receives a ballpark quote in about sixty seconds. Make the next step toward booking simple.

40 / SUPPORT

The Q&A Specialist

Answer the questions customers ask most often, all day, in your voice. Unusual questions are escalated to you so your time goes to the conversations that need you.

41 / OUTBOUND

Outbound Reminder Calls

Appointment confirmations, follow-ups and review requests delivered in a real-sounding voice. Complete the calls you rarely have time to make yourself.

42 / BILINGUAL

Multilingual Customer Capture

Bilingual conversations and booking help Spanish-speaking customers get past the voicemail barrier. A full translation is handed to you for the next step.

05 / SLEEP AT NIGHT

Make the business less fragile.

A dependable business knows where its information lives, how its systems connect and what to do when something fails. It also knows which numbers matter and which recurring bills still earn their place.

HOW TO CHOOSE

Start with what would interrupt tomorrow.

Name the records, tools and decisions you depend on. If losing one would stop the day, make its protection or recovery the first conversation. Then untangle duplication and improve visibility.

Explore the options on the next two pages.

05 / SLEEP AT NIGHT

Protect essentials. See the numbers.

43 / SECURITY

Locked Doors On Your Website

Protect the front door of your website by blocking attacks and unwanted bots. The setup addresses eighty common ways attackers get in, reducing avoidable exposure.

44 / BACKUPS

Backups That Actually Work

Customer information, job records, photos and reports are backed up automatically, encrypted and recoverable. A failed laptop or hard drive does not have to take the records with it.

45 / COMPLIANCE

Lawyer-Proof Setup

Put privacy policies, data handling rules and deletion rights into your setup. Organize how customer information is handled and reduce the gaps that can turn into expensive problems.

46 / RECOVERY

Disaster Recovery Plan

Give each system a written recovery plan. When a fire, flood or other disruption happens, there is a clear route back to work rather than a plan to invent under pressure.

47 / DASHBOARD

The Owner's Dashboard

Bring leads, jobs, revenue, top services and customer sources onto one clear screen. See the numbers you need without digging through an analytics tool.

48 / ATTRIBUTION

Where The Money Came From

Connect advertising spend to booked jobs and revenue. Understand which marketing activity produces work so you can make informed decisions about the next dollar.

05 / SLEEP AT NIGHT

Connect the tools. Clear the clutter.

49 / INTELLIGENCE

Competitor Watch

Follow competitors' search rankings, prices, ads and reviews as they change. Keep the information current so changes in your market do not arrive as a surprise.

50 / ALERTS

Sales Alerts On Your Phone

Get a phone alert when a real prospect arrives on your site or a payment reaches your account. Stay in the loop without living in your inbox.

51 / AUDIT

Subscription Bloat Audit

Review recurring account charges and flag services you no longer need. Most clients find savings on the first pass that cover the audit fee.

52 / INTEGRATION

Make Your Tools Talk

Connect your calendar, email, accounting, field app and customer list. Enter a customer once and move the details between the systems automatically.

53 / MIGRATION

Move Off The System You Hate

Move customers, history and files out of the software that no longer fits. Settle into a system built around the way your business actually works.

54 / CRM

Customer List That Actually Works

Set up your customer list properly and load the records you already have. Replace fragile spreadsheets with an organized system your business can use.

A PLACE TO TEST THE DECISION

Borrow another point of view.

Bring a decision with real consequences: hiring, pricing, an acquisition or a change of direction. Five senior advisors debate the issue and return a report you can use to think it through.

WHAT COMES BACK

Majority recommendation

The direction the advisors favor.

Dissent

The strongest competing perspective.

Risks

The concerns to weigh before acting.

Next steps

A practical route beyond the question.

WAYS TO KEEP A SEAT

The Counsel

5 sessions / month

The Boardroom

15 sessions / month

The Standing Seat

Always on, tuned to your industry

Try one free session at the Board

One session per visitor; roughly 30 seconds of deliberation. Ask Douglas about ongoing access on retainer.

FROM A PROBLEM TO A WORKING SOLUTION

Agree on the work. Then put it to use.

01 You tell us what's broken

30-MINUTE CALL

Describe the missed calls, lost leads or paperwork using real examples. The first conversation is about the work that needs attention. No pitch.

02 We agree on the plan

BEFORE WORK BEGINS

We put the scope, price and timeline in writing. Most projects begin with a deposit. For service trades, advertising exchanges or combined arrangements, value and commitments are agreed up front.

03 We build. You see it working.

ONE SESSION

We configure, customize and test the solution, then walk through it using your branding and workflow. What done looks like is agreed before we start.

04 We go live together

DAY ONE

We launch and help you put the solution to work. Payments follow the agreed schedule, with milestones for larger projects.

05 We keep making it better

ONGOING

Monthly reports, quarterly reviews and ongoing improvements keep the work moving after launch.

FAMILIAR WORK, DIFFERENT SETTINGS

Begin with the job, not the industry label.

These are industries Legacy AI already knows. Their workflows are useful starting points; the right arrangement still depends on your customers, your team and how your work gets done.

Auto Body & Collision

Insurance referral follow-up, estimates from photos and repair-status texts.

Plumbers, HVAC, Contractors

Answered calls, scheduled jobs, field reports and photos, with review requests that go out.

Chiropractic & Wellness

Waitlist support, no-show reminders, rebooking nudges and referral follow-up.

Restaurants & Hospitality

Reservations, review replies, repeat-customer reminders and cancellation recovery.

Professional Services

Lead capture, follow-up and nurture while the team handles client work.

Property Inspection

Scheduling through the final report. The current workflow is already in production across Indiana.

WHEN YOUR WORK IS DIFFERENT

Describe the repetitive task. Examples include watching insurance claim portals or permit filings, sorting an inbox and drafting replies, tracking competitor prices, answering DMs, or reordering inventory.

COMBINE ONLY WHAT THE WORK NEEDS

A useful tool is good. A clear handoff is better.

These are starting routes through the existing menu, not new packages. Use them to describe the flow you want, then agree the scope around your actual process.

BRING THIS PAGE TO THE CONVERSATION

One page. A clearer next step.

Write a few words in each space. A concrete example is more useful than a technical specification.

The piece of work I want to improve

What happens today, and what is frustrating about it?

The people and tools involved

Who touches the work? Where does the information live?

What I want to see working

Describe the next step or finished result in plain language.

The examples I can bring

A report, a typical inquiry, a calendar, a form or an existing process.

KEEP THE ARRANGEMENT WORKABLE

Traditional payment, service trades, advertising exchanges and combined arrangements are welcome. Every partnership begins with clear scope, agreed value and commitments on both sides.
